

The Shock of the Old: Discovering Britain's Ice Age Cave Art

Thursday February 22nd at 2.00pm. Venue: The Lincoln Museum.

Cost: Members £8.00. Non Members £10.00. Students £5.00

An account of the search for, and discovery of, Britain's first Ice Age cave art at Creswell Crags in Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire, by Dr Paul Bahn; 'how my 30-year dream was fulfilled in a single morning! The engravings and bas-reliefs discovered have been dated to around 13,000 years ago and are thus by far the oldest known artistic depictions in the country'.

Paul Bahn is recognised as a leading expert in pre-historic cave art worldwide. The Friends anticipate that many may be interested in this talk and welcome the attendance of guests.

Entrance: Members £8.00. Guests/Non Members £10.00. Students £5.00

If you would like to attend this talk then please complete the attached slip and send with your cheque, payable to FLMAG, to Val Hutchinson, 10 Whitley Close, Skellingthorpe, Lincoln. LN65RY or:

BACS your payment to Sort Code: 050563 Acc No:43171944 ref: Cave Art please email me to confirm your booking for my attendance list at: val.h440@btinternet.com

---

I/we should like to attend: Discovering Britain's Ice Age Cave Art and enclose a cheque for £

..... Name/s .....

Email address or Telephone Number: .....